JUST A REMINDER

Razer Flapp Pads

These pads are a single density pad designed to be applied with a partial shoe. The back section of the pad makes contact with the ground and provides cushion for the heel area of the hoof. Packed in 5 pairs to a box.

Bellota Prime Level Rasp

The Bellota Prime Level rasp is 12% wider and 10% thinner than regular rasps which makes it perfect for leveling balance and control. It boasts an aggressive (8teeth/row) rasp side and a chip breaker file side for a smoother finish.

Hoofjack Saves Wear and Tear On Your Body

These images from FPD's FootPro Shop show why Hoofjack has been the standard for hoof stands in the farrier industry for years. The design has proven to be the best in the industry and saved a lot of aches and pains for farriers, owners and vets that use them. Most horses are much more comfortable and appreciate the stable feel of the stand. Visit www.hoofjack.com for options and information.

Clinching is much easier when using the Hoofjack with post.

Final buffing of a front foot is definitely easier done with the hoof on a stand. This is true for work being done by the farrier or for someone prepping the hoof for a show.

Hot fitting off the stand but notice the aluminum plate modification on the Hoofjack base used to set the hot shoe on while final paring the sole.

You can get a great view of the relationship of the coronary band to the wall with a foot on the Hoofjack stand.

Checking the fit of the shoe and marking any needed grinds is another great use of the stand.

Putting the foot up on the stand allows you to take a good look at flares and the finish of the outer wall.

Whether you are using a rasp/file or a buffer, having the foot on a stand takes a lot of pressure off your back and legs.

Attach a rubber cleaning stick to the Hoofjack to clean the sanding sleeve on a FootPro Hoof buffer to keep it in good working order.
